Armed Forces Pensions Calculator User Guide

Defence Business Services: Armed Forces & Veterans
A Brilliant service for our brilliant Services

This guide is designed by DBS to support in service personnel using the Armed Forces Pension Calculator (AFPC). This guide compliments the Scheme Publications available from Armed forces pensions - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\).

This document is only a supporting guide and further assistance, including aiding accessibility for those with additional needs, can be obtained through Unit HR or via the JPAC Enquiry Centre

Continuous Improvement of this document is managed by DBS AF&VS, suggestions for improvement should be sent via your Pers Admin Branch chain of command to the Future Development Team - SO2 Future Development (Pensions)

Should you encounter any issues when using the AFPC or when acquiring some of the detail required to complete your entry then please report this to your Pers Admin chain of command who are can advise you directly; or report the issue/default through the Functional Chain of Command

Current Exemptions

The Armed Forces Pension Calculator (AFPC) is being updated with regular feature improvements. This includes the addition of calculating benefits where individual circumstances differ from 'the norm' e.g. Pension Sharing Order on Divorce, Added Pensions and Additional Voluntary Contributions, Rejoiners and Specialist Trades

As such the calculator is much more complicated than previous issues and requires much more information from the user and indeed some further refinement from the developers. As this time we have some user exemptions, they are:

- RFPS Medical & Dental Officer (MODOs) members
- RFPS Professional Aviator members
- RFPS Officer Commissioned from the Ranks (OCFR)
- Members of the Royal Gibraltar Regiment
- AFPS 75 Special Forces Commissioned from the ranks with 5 years or more commissioned service who leaves at the end of their engagement
- AFPS 75 / 05 Members with Pension Sharing Orders (PSO) where the impact falls within the 2015 Pension Remedy Period. Only upon receipt of your RSS will you as a cohort be able to receive an accurate calculation
- Members of AFPS 75 who have a break in service prior to 6 Apr 06 and are entitled to a preserved pension, your forecast will be inaccurate and you are advised to complete an AFPS Form 12
- AFPS 75 members on Specialist Pay Spines who complete regular service beyond age 55 will not be able to calculate extended resettlement commutation rights.

ARMED FORCES PENSION CALCULATOR

Test Version 2023 - V32.1.9 Test

Welcome to the Armed Forces Pension Calculator

The Armed Forces Pension Calculator (AFPC) includes a projection of benefits from the Armed Forces Pension Schemes. This calculator is designed to be used by Regular Service, MPGS and Reservist personnel, however, due to the complexity of pay arrangements some cohorts are unable to use the calculator. Check the terms and conditions below to see which groups are excluded.

The pension calculator has not yet been updated to provide an accurate forecast for your options under the McCloud Remedy. Once the full details of the McCloud Remedy have been confirmed by Her Majesty's Treasury, the calculator will be updated and made available to members.

The Armed Forces Pension Scheme 2015 is designed to reflect the unique nature of Service life, to provide a retirement income for you and your dependants, and to incentivise retention in Service as a key part of your overall remuneration package. These videos explain your benefits in further detail and direct you where to find further information Armed Forces Pension Scheme 15 \(AFPS15\). If you are using the calculator via MODnet the correct video link is available here.

The landing page

With the release of the new AFPC it is important that all users take the time to read and engage with notices on the front page and review the Terms and Conditions before progressing.

This page provides vital links to policy documents and provides the user with a guide to which information types would be useful prior to commencement (eg any Pension Sharing Order or Ill Health Benefit documentation)

Once read please tick the Terms & Conditions acceptance button and continue

On this page you will be required to enter your current service including Service, Engagement type, Rank, Date of Birth, Date of Entry or Enlistment (current contract) and project out to a future date for your anticipated service termination.

It is vital at this point that you enter your current service as it will direct the remainder of the calculators questions. For example if you are now FTRS but have previous service in Regular forces then the current service is FTRS and past service as and when required will be Regular – even if there period of broken service was limited to days.

Members with a pension in payment will not be able to join pension scheme forecasts e.g. an AFPS75 immediate pension in payment with an abatement due to an additional FTRS contract will only be able to receive a forecast for the additional FTRS service.

Re Joining

1. Are You Re Joining the Armed Forces

Yes

2. Did you leave service last time with a preserved pension

Yes

3. Do you wish to count your previous Armed Forces service with your current and future service for the award of one pension

Yes

4. Service Years Transferred

Years:

Days:

5. Terms And Conditions

- It is optional to transfer service or aggregate service in respect of a previous preserved pension. If you do and leave before age 55 with an entitlement to a preserved pension, your new combined preserved pension will not be paid until you reach age 65.
- Only the last period of service under AFPS 75 can be aggregated with your current AFPS 05 service. Previous engagements would need to have been formally transferred in within your first year of joining AFPS 05. See the booklet 'transferring pension benefits'.
- With effect from 17 December 2014, AFPS 75 service and AFPS 05 service will count for Resettlement Grant (RG) purposes without having to opt to aggregate these periods of service. (This is assuming no RG has been received for the first period of service and no EDP or immediate pension benefits are payable).
- If you transferred your pension rights from a previous employer's scheme or a private pension arrangement, or you were given a credit of service in respect of a previous AVC agreement, such credits will not count as relevant service towards the minimum of 18 years relevant service required for the award of 2005 EDP even if you are over age 40 when you leave service again. Transfers in should therefore not be included in your total relevant service.
- Only Regular Service Personnel are eligible to receive Resettlement Grants.
- You cannot aggregate a period of Regular service with Reserve Service.

I accept the above terms (you have to accept the terms to continue)

Re joiners AFPS 75/05

Note: This option will only appear if your current service started after Apr 2005. Any previous service entitles you to 'rejoiner' status and you will be asked for details that will automatically consider whether your pensions can be linked. This is important as the benefits defined at the end of this projection will show joined qualifying service with immediate benefits or a single preserved/deferred pension forecast for your current service

Leaving the service with a preserved/deferred pension could indicate that you may be entitled to join your previous service with this current membership in order to enhance your benefits, detail can be obtained from your unit Pers Admin teams or via the links below. By adding the previous service the calculator will make assumptions based on the years transferred and use current / future ranks for calculation purposes

Members with a pension in payment will not be able to join pension scheme forecasts e.g. an AFPS75 immediate pension in payment with an abatement due to an additional FTRS contract will only be able to receive a forecast for the additional FTRS service.

Breaks in Service

Breaks in Service are common, often linked to a period of unpaid Maternity Leave or Detention. Further, the AFPC can manage breaks in service where an individual has joined the service after 2005 having rejoined with a break in service less than 5 years.

If you have already included a period of rejoiner service in an earlier question you are not required to re-enter it here.

The example shows two Breaks in Service – simply enter your dates and select ‘Add’ as required

Special Determined Rates of Pay (SDRP)

Understanding your service history for 2015 – 2016 when the pay reforms were introduced is important. Many personnel are unaffected and moved simply from one Pay Table to another with little or no impact on their respective pay increment.

Some individuals were afforded pay protection to ensure they did not suffer a reduction in their pay. As such their pay was held at their current rate as an SDRP for a defined period of time. Confirmation of this can be found on your pay statement – marked in the information box as ‘SDRP’ indicating the annual salary and date the SDRP will end.

The AFPC has been improved with many more personnel able to use the tool. One such cohort is the MPGS. These personnel can now add their current service detail and build in any previous service years they may have had on current / legacy schemes.

If you served previously you may have discharged with a preserved pension or indeed a crystallised Pension in payment (often abated). In this example the individual served 7 years with a preserved pension which is added to the future pension forecast.

It is important you accurately calculate your previous service in years and days for the forecast to be accurate

As a 2015 Pension Remedy member you will have two Service Details reports. It is here that you can see how your service is apportioned to each pension scheme.

For those terminating service after 1 Oct 23 your Service Details will formally be those represented on the left. As part of 2015 Pension Remedy you will be given a choice to move the service to the scheme benefits on the right – this is call a deferred choice and more detail will be provided in your RSS.

Important to note here is how the 7 years service is shown in different schemes and the benefits calculated for each

You may be aware of the term ‘Rollback’. This term is used to describe the legal requirement of moving your remediable pensionable service from your current scheme (on the right) to your legacy schemes (on the left), this will occur on 1 Oct 23. You do not need to do anything as this process is automatic.

Pension Details – 2015 Pension Remedy Member (75/15)

As a 2015 Pension Remedy member with AFPS 75 legacy benefits you will be presented with 2 forecasts. The first (left) shows your benefits should you be discharging after 1 Oct 23 and choose to remain on your current benefit terms. The right displays your options to take a deferred choice and move your pensionable service back into the AFPS 15 scheme.

It is important you look at all the figures and understand how much and for how long these will be in payment.

This represents information only. You do not need to make a choice until you leave the service

Commutation – 2015 Pension Remedy Member (75/15)

As a 2015 Pension Remedy member you will have two Commutation reports. It is here that you can explore the options of either increasing your Lump Sum by decreasing your annual pension benefits (AFPS 75 only) or decreasing your Lump Sum and increasing your annual pension benefits (AFPS 15 only). Both of these options have taxation and repayment implications which are further explained in the scheme booklets.

You must be clear of the financial impact over time when choosing these options.

Inverse Commutation: Taking your tax free lump sum and turning it into a taxable annual income

Resettlement Commutation: Taking your annual Pension (note pension only) and converting it into a tax free lump sum which is paid back over time

Commutation – 2015 Pension Remedy Member (05/15)

As a member of AFPS 2015 you can inversely commute ALL of your lump sum to increase your annual benefits (known as Inverse Commutation), note the lump sum is tax free and the annual benefits are not.

As a member of AFPS 15 you can also explore the option of Commutation of your annual income at State Pension Age in order to raise a tax free lump sum. This option may have taxation implications which are further explained in the scheme booklets.

You must be clear of the financial impact over time when choosing either of these commutation options.

Early Payment - 2015 Pension Remedy Member

There are occasions when an individual may wish to draw on their pension benefits early. In this example the service person will already be in receipt of an AFPS 75 pension, but can apply through DBS for an early release of their AFPS15 benefits.

You will note that the Calculator provides a forecast against the age of retirement and that the amount to be paid against each year is lower than your deferred pension payable at State Pension Age (SPA). As your early release of pension gets closer to SPA the amount to be received goes up.

Early Payment – AFPS 2015 Member

There are occasions when an individual may wish to draw on their pension benefits early. In this example the service person will have a deferred Pension payable within the scheme rules of AFPS15. The individual can draw on those benefits from the age of 55. By taking an actuary reduction, a reduced pension is paid over a longer period of time.

You will note that the Calculator provides a forecast against the age of retirement and that the amount to be paid against each year is lower than your deferred pension payable at State Pension Age (SPA). As your early release of pension gets closer to SPA the amount to be received goes up.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

1. The Armed Forces Pension Calculator (AFPC) is for guidance purposes only and has a 2% error margin. It is not intended to provide you with financial advice. If you require financial advice, you should contact an independent financial adviser. Your unit administration staff have a list of Services Insurance and Investment Advisory Panel (SIAP) approved independent financial advisers, although you are free to use any independent financial adviser that you wish. The forecasts that the calculator provides are for active members and based on 2021 pension codes and 2021 pay rates. The 2022 pension codes and pay rates will be available following the announcement of the AFPRB pay award. Reference to a 'preserved' or 'deferred' pension throughout the Calculator has the same meaning i.e. 2 or more pensionable years of service but not qualifying for an immediate pension.

Service History

Here you will be able to identify some of their earlier detail entered, including PSO information, SSRP / SDRP pay spines / Added Pension etc. You should check the detail to ensure it matches the detail you entered. If it is different or absent you may need to re-enter the detail for an accurate forecast.

Terms & Conditions

Rarely read and super important! In here you will find further detail on the limitations of the AFPC and the exemptions currently in place. Reading these will take no more than 5 minutes and for most will add value to understanding of the output from the calculator
